Facebook a new tool for job searches

Author : ecxmlrpc

Date : December 4, 2011

Former Pewaukee resident Tim Murphy, reports on his job search and career advice blog that using the new social media can be helpful in your search for employment. He reports that companies are using social network sites like Facebook and Twitter for applicant searches. It looks like this could be a great tool for both job seekers and job providers.

Read the full article here:
Facebook a new tool for job searches - Sussex Sun