Find an intership that suits your skills even while in school

Author : ecxmlrpc

Date : December 4, 2011

Landing an internship while you are in school or between jobs is a great way to help build up your resume. When you find one that suits your skills, you can use it to get great experience that looks very good when a prospective employer is reading your resume. An internship is also a good way to build your professional network.

Read the full article here:
Need to build your r?sum?? Find an intership that suits your skills - UConn Daily Campus