Jobs Go Unfilled, Gen Y Waits For A Sign

Author : ecxmlrpc

Date : April 20, 2012

There are almost 17 million college graduates who are in search of work. If you are one among them, you ought to know more about Grant Cordone, who considers himself to be a sales savant and is ready to share valuable tips with job seekers. The good news is that Gen Y is ready with 17 million new jobs in this job season. Cordone says that there is no point in sending a resume, as it may get drowned in the river of resumes over the internet. Go to meet the boss in person, and present your best.

Read the full article here:
Jobs Go Unfilled, Gen Y Waiting on a Sign - Forbes