Interviewing Tips From Someone Who Just Got Hired

Author : ecxmlrpc

Date : October 3, 2012

I spent the better part of my summer interviewing for a new job, exploring other derm offices and travelling to different cities I was considering. I was surprised by the volume of offices looking to hire a dermatology PA or NP. I had a wonderful experience searching and interviewing, and I was lucky to have many options to choose from. I decided on sunday morning, June 10, that I would give my notice Monday morning. After I wrote my letter of resignation, I made an iced latte and jumped on my laptop ready to find a new job.

Read the full article here:
Interviewing Tips From Someone Who Just Got Hired - ADVANCE for Physician Assistants (blog)