Tips For Juggling Breastfeeding and Work

Author : ecxmlrpc

Date : October 5, 2012

Staying committed to your job and to your baby who still needs breast milk can be difficult, but it can be done. Make sure that the people at your work place understand how committed you are to your child and your job. Let them know that breastfed babies are healthier, which means, you will miss less time in work because babies seldom get sick.

Read the full article here:
Tips for Juggling Breastfeeding and Your Career - Business Insider